Abstract

The relevance of a subject of a research is caused by the fact that since the beginning of spread of new COVID-19 coronavirus infection, the condition of world economy considerably changed. The International Monetary Fund stated that spread of new coronavirus infection of COVID-19 provoked the most large-scale crisis in world economy since the Great depression (<https://www.interfax.ru/business/703400>). The analysis of world practice of use of technology of outsourcing showed that outsourcing develops and transformed in connection with active development of modern technologies and the fast-changing situation in Russia and the world in general. In the present article results of the analysis of current state of enterprise structures are given in Russia taking into account the current situation caused by distribution
